

Make the most of your firm's website

by including material that addresses both the practical and emotional needs of those families you serve or potentially could serve.

Selected Resources has developed condensed versions of five of our popular copyrighted brochures, specifically for Internet use. Each document is three pages, including a general introduction and conclusion, and is formatted as a pdf file for use on the web. Work with your web designer to incorporate these useful consumer information guides into your website, or utilize Selected Resources' Signature Program for assistance.

NEW

Toward Tomorrow...
Practical Information for Survivors

Following the death of a spouse, child, family member or friend, survivors face a number of challenges — some of them emotional, others practical — that must be dealt with in order to move on with their lives. Handling an estate is one of those challenges. The following information should help you identify and understand the options and general procedures you should consider when organizing your affairs and making personal changes after the loss.

Understanding Cremation
Choices for a Meaningful Funeral Service

In recent years, cremation has become an increasingly popular choice. The following provides information on cremation and the options for services when cremation is chosen. It will help answer some of your questions and encourage you to ask others. Most important, it will help you make informed decisions when arranging the type of personalized funeral service that will truly be meaningful.

Cost:
$45 each

A Helpful Guide to Funeral Planning
Creating a Meaningful Tribute to a Life Lived

Sound decisions are based on good information. This is especially true when planning your own funeral or that of a family member or friend. The following outlines basic information about the types of funerals available and the many ways a funeral director can provide assistance. It will help answer some of your questions and encourage you to ask others. Most important, it will help you make informed choices when arranging the type of personalized funeral service that will truly celebrate a life that has been lived to the fullest.

How to Choose a Funeral Home
Straightforward Answers That Can Make the Decision Easier

Sound decisions are based on good information. This is especially true when planning your own funeral or that of a family member or friend. The funeral profession has changed quite a bit in recent years. Large corporations have bought what have been locally owned, independent funeral homes. Alternative providers offering only limited types of funeral arrangements as well as retail casket stores are appearing in some areas and on the Internet. Some people now prefer different kinds of funeral services, or perhaps no funeral ceremonies at all. Whatever your preferences, it is important that the funeral home you choose is one that can provide the information, guidance and options that will help meet your emotional, spiritual, cultural and economic needs. The following outlines basic information that will help you choose a funeral home that is right for you.

Talking to Children about Death
Good Grief: What Is It?

The following material was prepared by child bereavement expert, Marie Treast, LL.M., for parents, relatives and other adults who have an opportunity to help bereaved children and adolescents. According to Ms. Treast, when a death occurs, you can play an important role. By making the circumstances of the death, if challenging the coping skills of youngsters, early attention to their needs makes it possible to keep them psychologically healthy and prevent the development of future emotional problems. This information will help you make young people who are able to deal with loss in a healthy way — a way that will make their grief "Good Grief!"

For more information or to place an order:

CALL: 800-323-4219 • FAX: 847-236-9968
E-MAIL: resources@selectedfuneralhomes.org
WEB: Members Only section of selectedfuneralhomes.org
MAIL: 500 Lake Cook Road, Suite 205, Deerfield, IL 60015

Selected Resources, Inc.
a subsidiary of Selected Independent Funeral Homes